Do You Know Your . . .

ABC's

Here's the scenario: Kindergarten, day 1 the genesis of our education. There's a smiling, long-haired woman, who definitely is not your mother, hugging you and drying your tears. You think to yourself, "What did I do to make mom and dad send me here?" You look at the other 25 students in this new place called school — and you don't like it. And what's the first thing she asks the new five year-old class of 1989? The alphabet. "Do you know our alphabet, boys and girls?" she chimes. No lady, our parents are total oatmeal heads and we've never seen Sesame Street. Of course we know our alphabet — or a good 90% of it. Except for the occasional mix-up of L-M-N-O to "elemeno,", we've got all 26 of those puppies down like the daytime show schedule of channel 2.

So thusly begins every childs introduction to the alphabet. We grow, physically and intellectually, through the years, never having another day when those letters don't wreak havoc in our lives.

On up through the ranks of elementary education we are continually bombarded with letter paraphernalia; how to properly arrange them to spell a word, how to correctly draw each one in penmanship, how to pronounce each one in given conditions depending on its' position in the word. General census has it as an adult plot against sanity, but since they have to use them, too, it quickly becomes second nature . . . and then we reach ninth grade. Ninth grade is where they try to tell us that letters aren't letters anymore — they're numbers. And being a freshman wasn't hard enough? They had to totally annihilate 8 previous years of memorization and now, ever so nonchalantly, tell me that X=6, Y=13 and Z=the square root of angle A. So we learned what algebra was for the tests, but when that 51 minute class was over, "A" was still the grade we prayed for and "P" was still the first letter in pepperoni pizza.

And good thing, too. Because highschool was about to become a veritable potpourri of initials and the like supposedly created to make life easier. Well, I must've been absent the day they taught abbreviations, so here's a few that trouble me, personally, and a couple that are beyond my power of ever grasping them. With the new responsibility of driving bestowed on us, attention is now drawn to the make of automobiles. Not more than a casual trip through the coveted parking lot would relax such as SS, GT, or CJ. And I humbly admit that off the top of my head I can't specifically tell you what each one means.

But now we are seniors. The traditional leaders of the school. We've absorbed all this malarkey in stride. But it's not even close to being over. Aside from all the college name abbreviations (99% of which contain a 'U') and Greek fraternity names, which, for blood pressures sake, will be saved for another story, there is a new institution here at Wachusett. It's called the 6-day cycle. No more Monday through Friday five day school week. It's now A-B-C-D-E or F day. And I'll be the first to concede that I've been late for more than a couple of classes due only to the fact that in the Wachusett microcosm it was D-day, but in real life, it was Tuesday.

And if all this psuedo-scrabble game has got you a bit perplexed, take heart. If you get an "A" in "P.E.'" you can go to "U.C.L.A." and get your "M.D." and then find some "R_X" for our letter problems "A.S.A.P."

Do You Know Your AAA's

As usual this year's sports season has proved that Wachusett can compete successfully with the best of them. Whether it be Fall, Winter or Spring, Wachusett ended up on top. Although some teams were not as successful as others, the athletes displayed and carried themselves like they were winners, because deep down they had won. It didn't matter what sporting event it was, the teams packed the crowds in until there wasn't any room left. The players, coaches, cheerleaders, school faculty, and student body all contributed to the winning ways of Wachusett.

Gridiron On The Upswing

Attention usually shys away from football at Wachusett, but this year the team played with great intensity inspite of it. After a slow start in the highly competitive Midland League the Mountaineers turned it around and won four of their last seven games with exciting come-from-behind victories against Hudson and Fitchburg. The team finished the season 4-6.

The Mountaineers will say goodbye to head coach Barry "The Bear" Finneron. One senior was quoted as saying "Only those who played under coach Finneron can fully understand and appreciate his dedication to the team and the sport." Coach Finneron along with Steve Hair and Mal Kelley led the team through good and bad for three years. Wachusett will also be losing 15 seniors.

It's O.K., you can get up now.

SPOKEN LOUDLY ON THE FIELD

All in all the boys soccer team had a superb season, ending with a record of 17-3-1, and a District E Finalist. The team was led by the leadership of the tri-captains. Matt Chasse, Murph McKeon, and Andy O'Conell. Coach Knight, who is in his first year as a varsity coach, did an excellent job of preparing the squad for their debut in the Midland League. This year's team did another great job and leaves a strong nucleus of juniors for next year's team.

ANOTHER VICTORIOUS SEASON

As usual, the girls varsity soccer team had another successful season making it to the District E semi-finals. Led by four seniors, Tabitha Ovanes, Andrea LaFortune, Robin Penny and Eliza Edelsburg, the team demonstrated their skill and sportsmanship in every game. Although young, the team worked hard and finally pulled together, making it further than anyone expected. The season came to a climax with a thrilling upset of Nashoba in the District tournament, something that no other Wachusett girls soccer team had accomplished. For the girls, the District Tournament was packed with excitement the entire way. They first met Holy Name and came out the victor in a two day, one hundred minute marathon, which they eventually won by a score of two to one. A contest certain to be recorded as a classic in Wachusett sports history. The very next day, the girls overcame sheer exhaustion to defeat Nashoba for the first time ever. Their District E play, along with being voted second in sportsmanship in Central Mass. rounded out a great season. The contribution of the juniors, sophomores and freshman on the team must not go unmentioned, for they will be a team to be reckoned with in the future.

Keep your eye on the ball!

Ablazed with the desire and motivation to win the new league title, the 1988 field hockey team captured the victory. Tri-captained by seniors Allie Paulson, Amy Pasternak, and junior Cindy Henderson, the team took the challenge of a new league with enthusiasm.

An energetic and persistent defense led by Nicole Leroux, Jen Roberts, and Kerri Sechman kept the overall record at 8-1-6. Coach Denise Aldrich and assistant Donna Hagglund were once again the foundation of a successful team.

Small Team, But A Lot of Pride

Anthropomorphically. Despite losing twelve seniors of last years team that finished fifth in the districts, the boys cross-country team managed a 4-8 dual meet record and a strong performance at the district meet placing 9th. After a 2-0 start, veteran Jason Rasku and co-captain Dan Lorge suffered injuries but co-captain Jon Pierce managed to continue to win most of his races and keep Wachusett competitive. Overall, the season helped promising sophomores Jeff ''table cloth'' Manning and Willy ''sausage biscuit'' Hackler develop, while Jon Pierce proved that he is one of the better runners in central Mass.

Girls Dominate the Countryside

Achieving their most successful season ever, the girls cross-country team shined bright this fall sports year. Captained by Hetty Caraway, Paula Narcisi, and Kerry Pyle the team compiled a duel record of seven wins and one loss. They won the District E. Championship and their first Nashoba Invitational was captured this year. The girls became Midland League Champions and finished third in the states. The meets were run by five seniors, Cheryl Odoardi, Amy Sullivan, Robin Fales, Kerry Pyle, and Sarah Sadowski, and two sophomores, Sarah Lorge, and Brenda Fales.

Varsity Hoopsters Are Superb

Astounding! The Varsity Boys Basketball Team compiled an impressive 17-5 record, ending in a dramatic 63-62 loss to Holy Name at the Hart Center. Backed by strong senior leadership, the team's whole season was reflected by exciting games. Led by the ingenious coaching of Mr. Duane Corriveau, the team showed strong unity and discipline all season. Entered in a just newly formed Midland League, the Mountaineers proved dominant. They won the Midland League crown and once again were rated number one by the Worcester Telegram & Gazette.

Amazingly the 1988-1989 Varsity Basketball team successfully completed their season with a record of 12-8.

Consisting of only three seniors, this young team's outlook was not very promising. However, through dedication and commitment they managed to make it to the district play-offs.

This young team surpassed their goals. Upon entering the new Midland League, they were able to upset strong opponents such as Holy Name and Burncoat. The girls developed into a team which coaches Gately and Quarella never expected to emerge. The girls should be proud of their accomplishments and their desire to rise to the occasion.

A quote by Amy Pasternak
"We came.
We ran.
We won!" — Districts '89.
With a lot of ups and downs, the Girls Winter Track Team came away with a 7-1 record, the Midland League Invitational Championship Title, and the 1989 District E Championship Title. We'll all remember Amy Sullivan crushing the 1,000 yard record, and Amy Pasternak crushing her knees while setting the 55 meter hurdle record.

Thanks to Mr. Beamer and Mr. Pasternak, and our captains, Amy Pasternak, Cheryl Odoardi, and Kerry Pyle — we established our goals and surpassed them, all with a total team effort!

The Boys Striding To Success

Alive with vigor, this year's Boys Indoor Track Team was led by captains Pete Belsito, Mike Peacock, and Gary Morse. They had a very successful season, they were defeated only once and won the Midland League Title in their first year in the league.

They were led by some strong veterans, but the real strength came from the number of talented newcomers. So many freshmen fuel much hope for the future of Wachusett's Boys Track Program.

An excellent season was displayed by the Girls Varsity Gymnastics Team. They finished their season with a record of ten wins, two losses, and placed second in the Midland League meet.

The top scores were junior Lisa Lashbrook on all events; and freshmen Debbie Powers and Lindsey Streeter, also on all events. Other top scorers were senior Christine Crompton on the beam, junior Melissa Winward on the bars, and sophomore Shannon Hayden on floor and vault.

With a team consisting of thirty six girls, Coach Deb Long kept her hands full with spotting and watching routines. This year's team was considered very young, and won't be hurt by the loss of their four seniors, captains Kelly Cronin and Kate Reidy, Christine Crompton, and Jennifer Hall.

Skaters One Step Behind

Although the Varsity Ice Hockey's win-loss record was not up to par, the team spirit and pride was bigger than life. Under the leadership of captains Andy Doe, Rob Maher, and Mike Cornacchioli, and the seniors Kevin O'Brien, Brad Cote, Brian Cranford, Scott Wheeler, and Scott Johnson the team was ever persistent in trying to come up on top. The tough, hard fought season did teach invaluable experiences to the younger players on the team. In the upcoming years the Ice Hockey team will be a worthy threat to opposing teams. This season emphasized to the team that you don't have to be successful in the win-loss column to be winners. It's how you play the game that really counts.

Netters Are Awesome

Apparently the change to a new head coach for the Boys' Tennis Team didn't have any effects on their record except improving it. Coming off a good year the team this year led by captain Chuck Rubin compiled a record with only a couple of losses. It looks bright for the boys when Districts roll around, but what ever happens the team next year will be just as strong.

Aces On The Court

As predicted by Coach Bernard at the spring breakfast the Girls' Tennis Team had an exceptional year. Captained by Allison Curran the girls went 10-0 before they suffered a loss to the Doherty Highlanders. Although they lost, it was a very close match so it wasn't that bad after all. The team finished the rest of the season strongly which will help them in the districts, good luck girls. What ever the outcome is, the team will be just as strong, possibly stronger next year.

Middle: Cute little thing isn't it?
Right: Look, it's Arnold Palmer! Oops, it's just Chris.

As forecasted, get it, forecasted, as in fore. A little golf humor to get things going. Well the golf team had a great season. With the no-show of the Garabedians Coach Spakauskas went to the underclassmen, and they delivered. But don't forget Chris Zekos, he was medalist several times throughout the season. Probably the most memorable part of the season was when the team upset both Leominster and Westboro in the same week.

As predicted the Varsity Baseball team had a good season. Led by the senior sextet of Chris Rogers, Murph Mckeon, Jeff Orne, Brad Cote, Daryle Corriveau, and Brian Uppstrom the team was able to qualify for district play, the results will be known later. But for now, who could forget the great plays that Jeff "Dog" Orne made at shortstop and the dramatic triple and homerun by Brian Uppstrom to beat St. Johns and Algonquin in the bottom of the 9th innings. The team should fare well in the districts with the experience of playing tight, extra inning games behind them.

In The Minors

Adventurous. A word to describe this years J.V. Baseball team. Throughout the season the team went on adventures while playing their games, unfortunately usually ending up with a loss, although the team did win enough games to make it respectable. With four different coaches in four different years it's tough to keep things straight, especially with this years coach. Although, the players will be able to experience successful seasons with the Varsity program in years to come.

Softballers Strut Their Stuff

As usual the Varsity Softball team had a good season. Under the senior leadership of Nicole Leroux, Holly Fredette, Alicia Delisigonore, and Tina Smith the team had an impressive 17-2 win over Hudson, a 9-4 win over Milford. The team did lose to a tough St. Peter Marian team. All in all with the underclassmen coming back the team should be a force next year.

Gridiron greatness

Greg "The Mac-attack" Macneil will be attending The University of Massachusetts on a football scholarship. The scouts were very impressed with Greg's ability and will be looking forward to his arrival. Greg will be playing defensive tackle for the U-Mass Minutemen. Good luck Greg.

NUMBER ONE DRAFT CHOICES

Daryle does Divine

Daryle "K-Man" Corriveau will also be attending The University of Massachusetts in the fall but, on a baseball scholarship. Daryle has decided to hang up the court shoes and play a little college hard-ball. He will be a starting pitcher for the Minutemen. The baseball coach is eagerly awaiting the K-Man's rocket launching arm which sends out 87 mph fastballs and incredible hooks. Best of luck at U-Mass Daryle.

Impressive

The Varsity Cheerleaders competed in their first Midland League Cheerleading Competition in March of 1989. The competition was held at Shrewsbury High School, where there were 12 teams competing for the title. Each team had to perform a routine consisting of dances and cheers for a time period of four min. Although the squad did not capture the crown. They should all be proud of themselves for looking great and for the time and effort spent in preparation for the tournament.

VICTORY

The girls cross-country team had an impressive year. They won the District title quite handily and also the Midland League conference. The team also won the Nashoba Invitational Meet and placed a strong third in the States. The team should be proud of their accomplishments.

MONDAY MORNINGS

Your alarm goes off, that annoying red light keeps flashing 6:30 accompanied by that loud beeping sound . . . time to GET UP!

Should you stay in bed and let mom storm in to yank you out of bed telling you you've got 10 minutes to eat, shower, get dressed and not to mention the 7 minute walk to the bus stop? Or, should you get up now? Well, it is 6:45 and you have just waisted your sleep time.

You make it through the shower alright, only fell asleep once. You throw on the same clothes you wore to bed. As you run through the kitchen, you grab a cup of coffee and a handful of CAP'N CRUNCH.

You just catch your bus, and while dozing off a freshman nails you in the back of you head because he's trying to be cool. GREAT!

There is just no way to get around Monday mornings unless you can afford to skip another day of school. It gets kind of obvious seeing how you have missed every other Monday since September.

SENIOR CLASSES

Senior classes can be very interesting. There you sit in the back row of Psychology surrounded by all different types of people. There's the chronic skipper who never shows up, and holds an average of 32. There's the sleeper who comes to class, but is never seen awake for the full 52 minutes. There's the frantic, who scrambles to write down everything the teacher says, afraid of missing something that might pop up on a test.

Seniors of all types and capabilities are out to find the easiest classes they can get. Who really wants to take the chance of colleges seeing a 'D' in Advanced History. Imagine the outrage at actually having to do a term project in Sociology. "Wait one minute! I thought this class was supposed to be a blow-off." SURPRISE!!

A GUIDE FOR STUDENTS

I'm sure many students can identify with the frustration of the 6 day schedule. Holidays and snow days used to mean there was a possibility of missing gym or the dreaded double lab. Now there is no way of getting out of them. So, here are a few tips in using the confusion of the 6 day schedule to your benefit.

1. When you have not studied for the killer Physics test, relax. Just go to the cafeteria. Show up next period in Physics. Look real astounded and say, "You mean to tell me this is 'C' day?" Sigh and apologize as you try to hold back tears of frustration.
2. Blame the announcements. "No, no, no. Mr. Lane said 'E' as in EGG, not 'B' as in BEG." and if that doesn't work try, "Well; the kid next to me in first period screams during announcements. I can't hear a thing, it is out of my hands."
3. When your Chemistry teacher tries explaining how on the 5th cycle you meet twice on 'E' day, take a nap. You'll never understand it anyways, and you could benefit from a solid 52 minutes of sleep.

FRIDAY AFTERNOONS

It's Friday afternoon and last period seems to be dragging on forever. Finally, the 2:26 bell rings and we're out for the weekend! With a sudden burst of energy, you jump out of your seat and leave the room. You enter the hallway which is filled with happy faced teenagers making plans to fill up all of their free time between now and Sunday night. As you walk towards your locker, you hear the crowds talk of all of the activities of the weekend.

You might decide to go to a party that is at so-and-so's house. You make strategic plans with your friends, so your parents won't discover where you're going (they don't understand the importance of these parties as a social event).

When you arrive at the so-and-so's house you can't help feeling a little excited. What if you meet the person of your dreams here? What is someone you've been eyeing in school is here and he starts talking to you.

Or maybe parties aren't your thing. You will always find a sporting event with a lot of people cheering on the team. A school game is always a big event, especially if our team is ahead in the season. Some people go dancing on the weekends at Traxx or the Metro. Many find dancing a great way to get some exercise and show off a little in the process. Others plan on going to the movies with a big group of friends. Everybody has their own different interests. Isn't it great that we have so many things to fill up our weekend!

I'D RATHER BE SKIING! THANKS MOM AND DAD. FLORIDA, JAZZ, ECONOMICS: LEFTY CORNER! THE ONE WHO ENDS UP WITH THE MOST TOYS WINS! HI CB, LT, JJ, MC, CL, LLF AND YOU! COLLEGE HERE WE COME! GOOD LUCK CLASS OF 1989!

SKIPPING CLASS

Skipping classes has proven to be one of the most exciting high school thrills for students. It probably even occurred when our parents were in high school. The class of '89 naturally couldn't break this trend. Maybe we owe some reasonable explanation to the aggravated teachers . . . perhaps. Why do we risk getting caught by living life on the edge. (Doesn't that scare us?) Yet from careful study, observation, and lots of experience, a top ten "Reasons for skipping class" list has been famed.

A class skipper:

#10: Has nothing better to do.
#9: Would rather hang out in the cafeteria instead.
#8: Collapsed under peer pressure.
#7: Needs to visit a college.
#6: Has a teacher who isn't particularly fond of you.
#5: Needs to catch sleep.
#4: Dislikes the class(es).
#3: Has a car and a parking permit.
#2: Leaves to do breakfast.
#1: Has the hugest test in the world.

WEEKENDS

The one think that everyone can identify with on the weekends is "hanging out" with your friends. You can pick someone's house, sit around and talk, rent a movie or listen to music. You could get "dressed up" and all go out to a nice restaurant. You might go dancing at your favorite club. Maybe to to a game and support the Wachusett teams. Or check out a concert at the Centrum. You can make "big plans" and take a whole day and go to Boston. The best part about weekends though is that you are together because you all"click" and have some great times.

FUTURE PLANS

"What are you doing after graduation?" This is the question all seniors must answer to at least a MILLION times. Future plans are things we would rather not think about, but we were forced to this year. There are all kinds of roads to take, when one is picked, the decision is made.

Many will choose to continue their education in one form or another. Some will choose to attend a 4 year college, while others may choose a 2 year junior or community college. Then there is always people who take part time classes and work during their free hours.

Seniors not going to college might choose to join the work force, enlist in the armed services, or travel.

No matter what you choose, the future is up to you now.

BEST FRIENDS

Best friends are easily spotted at Wachusett. They dress alike, talk alike, have the same hair styles, everything is alike.

Best friends go everywhere together. Classes are scheduled so that they'll be together, Fridays and Saturdays are spent together whether it's to party, double date, or just watch T.V.

Of course, aside from the constant companionship, best friends are always there when you need them. They will listen intently, and always give you an honest opinion about anything from relationships to food. Even when the truth might hurt. More often then not they are right. But that is what makes a best friend a BEST FRIEND.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Believe IT! We have all had our share of Embarrassing Moments! Whether it is tripping up the stairs that leads you to your next class of having green jell-o thrown in your hair in the cafeteria.

You think . . . EVERYONE'S watching and they are all laughing at YOU! But now that we are talking about being embarrassed, how many times does it happen to you? Twice a week for some? Twice a day for others! No matter how we look at it we are all the "VICTIMS", but just what kind of "VICTIM" are you?

Babbling in class to your friend two rows away about your Friday night "SIN" and having the whole class hear you!

It's 2:25 P.M. and you really have to use the bathrooms NOW! So you run down the hall toward them, but as you come upon the door you run face first into it because the janitors locked it; They decided to leave early that day.

Waiting in lunch line for ten minutes starving, you pile food on your tray you finally get to the cashier only to realize you forgot your money today! . . . embarrassed?

You're a senior, it's the end of the day, you walked to your locker and . . . SURPRISE you have been double locked! Feeling like a geek you quickly reach for the lock on the locker next to yours so anyone passing by won't know it has happened to you! NOW IS THE TIME TO GO GET BRUCE!

You like HIM, you think HE likes you! Until your friend comes up to you in front of EVERYBODY and announces . . . "SO HE THINKS YOUR FAT!" (Go ahead kill your friend NOW!)

You and a few friends are walking into the cafeteria and BAM! Someone has thrown an apple right at your back! Now is the time to wonder . . . WHO DID IT, AND WHO SAW IT!

If you refuse to believe any of these following incidents have ever happened to you, or you just won't admit that you have ever had an embarrassing moment. Just wait until you see that candid shot of yourself in the yearbook! Then I guarantee you will be quite EMBARRASSED!

SAT'S

"Breakfast?" You expect me to eat breakfast at 7:00 am? Most people are still out partying at 7:00!

So goes the typical Saturday morning of the SAT's. Nationwide, parents are hearing something like this from their college bound seniors. Well, off to school . . . stop to pick up a friend or two . . . hit a few pot holes to revive everyone in the car . . . SCHOOL! UGH!

After standing in line, for what seems to be a lifetime, you finally get into one of the rooms, and hunt for the correct number of your seat. Then, after pencils are sharpened, forms filled, and a series of instructions that weren't paid attention to anyways, the timing starts . . . let the testing begin!

GRADUATION

Graduation is something Wachusett seniors have been looking forward to for a long time. These years have gone by fast and now time has run short. The clock is ticking and we must move on.

Most seniors can't believe it's graduating time already. We're all excited about it, graduating means money, presents and parties. Graduation is exciting, but there is also a sad reflection on the day. School is over and that's sad because we've all made special friends and had good times. The memories will always be a part of us.

ROCK CONCERTS

Walking up the roped off walk way, we hear music coming from the stage, so we quicken our pace. We slowly back down when we discover its just the opening band. I hand my ticket over and put the stub in my jeans pocket while I walk through the rotating metal rods. When we finally find our seats the show is about to begin. All the lights shut off, and everyone is standing before the first chord of music. The crowd comes alive with clapping and screaming. Now people are standing on the chairs and my vision is blocked. I jump up on my friends' shoulders. The screaming and clapping goes on for about two hours. The band heads off the stage, and the crowd goes wild chanting and yelling for an encore, and after a few minutes of this, the band comes out for one last song. The house lights go on, the only noise heard is the shuffling of feet and muffled voices. Once we're outside, my ears are ringing and my throat is sore. The memory of the concert, however, makes it all worth it!

SPRING ROMANCES

Beautiful spring! That time of the year when the grass and the trees are green, and the birds are singing. The air is perfumed with flowers, the sky is a brilliant blue, and the sun is always shining.

For many, this is the time of the year when young hearts are out searching for a special kind of friendship, and the perfect person to complete their lives. Sometimes the feeling just hits you: You wake up one morning and realize that your lab partner is the most wonderful person in the world. Sometimes the feeling hits someone else and they decide the feeling should be hitting you too! But either way, it's a wonderful, natural high that gives you the idea that you could conquer the world!

As the magical season draws near, couples can be seen all over W.R.H.S. holding hands and kissing in the halls. Of course this is always accompanied by the comments of friends and passerbys about this obvious public display of affection.

Don't feel depressed if you can't find someone to share this experience. Just close your eyes and think nice thoughts. That special someone may be just around the corner waiting.

FIRST PERIOD

Before first period is horrible. But the actual process is harder than the average adult might think. You're on the way to school, and you feel your stomach growling. The piece of toast you ate for breakfast just isn't cutting it. You contemplate for a couple of seconds, then say, "Let's GO TO BREAKFAST." Naturally your friends agree (who could resist?). Abdow's Breakfast Buffet for just $3.10? The waitresses always seem happy to see you walk in. "No school today, guys?" they ask. "Nope, not today," you lie, stifling a laugh. So you take about four trips to the buffet, and S-L-O-W-L-Y head back to school. "Just coming in?" the secretary always asks. "Why are you late?" "Well, my car broke down on the way to school, or, I overslept," are always good excuses. "Do you have a note?" "No, my parents both leave before me," you lie. So they check for your name in that huge list of students. You pray it's not your fourth. Ah, it's only the third. Safe again, and only two weeks until the next term begins, then you get three more!

WACHUSETT REVIEW

Wachusett students host a news program on the events behind the scenes at Wachusett. Not only does Channel 39 cover athletic events at the school, but they also cover such topics as the Madrigal Dinner, the Academic Decathalon team, the school musical, and other topics of interest. The program is hosted by Seniors Shawna Conley, Allison Curran, Eric Johnson, and Chuck Rubin. The advisor for the program is audio-visual director and Wachusett teacher, Mr. Tim Ethier.

Wachusett Review dares to be different. When ABC and CBS are afraid to run programs opposite The Cosby Show and A Different World; Channel 39 (and Wachusett Regional High School) dares to schedule the program on Thursday nights opposite those blockbuster hits.

Well, the future of the program remains to be seen. We, the Seniors, have set the tradition. Now, let the underclassmen continue the show!

FASHION STATEMENTS

Being high school seniors, let's face it, WE make the fashion statements at Wachusett. Most of us don't have any intentions of doing so or realizing it.

Boyfriends, brothers, and best friends are a good way of staying in style.

Boyfriends I think are one of the best ways to make your own statement. Everyone knows it's HIS sweater, and everyone knows HE's your boyfriend. Brother's, aah yes! Your brother goes out and buys a $200 leather jacket, now how can you resist? Grab it quick before he sees you, leave for school. Best friends are another way of adding clothes to your closet. So what if people know your wearing HER pants, because if you put your boyfriend's sweater your brother's jacket, and your best friend's pants all together VIOLA! You have made yourself a label a FASHION STATEMENT.

CARS

Your mind races as you try to think up the perfect argument for why you should be allowed to have the car tonight. You have just spent two hours raking up some serious brownie points, and you can still get some more in before your mother gets home from work. Let's see, you'll pick up the house (that includes cleaning the living room) and especially cleaning up your room. During all this, you're still thinking up a brilliant speech in your defense. When everything is done, you call your mother and see if she wants you to start dinner for her (a couple more points for you!)

TERM PAPERS

" . . . But I don't know what to write about! Honest!" Each term, just about every senior at Wachusett is saying this to themself. Usually, these horrible, made-to-torture, term papers are left to the night before they are due. I myself have gotten by on a hours sleep, just to type one.

Each time the paper is assigned, we promise ourselves, usually with witnesses around, that we will start that very night. "I'll never wait 'till the last minute again!" is heard all over the room. But, to no avail. We foolish seniors are creatures of habit. Most of us have been waiting until the night before since elementary school. Our parents just stand there and scold about how it'll never work when we are at college. (Actually, I spoke to a noted member of the faculty at W.R.H.S., and she said she did it all the time!)

NEWS IN REVIEW

A yearbook is like a time capsule. Things are buried in the book that you don't give much thought to the first time you look through it; but those things become very important as time goes by (like 10, 20, 30, or more years from now!)! Let's look at some of the more important stories in the news as we review what's happened so far in our senior year at Wachusett:

George Bush and Daniel Quayle were elected President and Vice-President of the United States in November. They beat our own governor, Michael Dukakis.

Michael Dukakis announced he would not run for governor again; and then raised taxes and cut spending especially in education.

The Boston Red Sox start their 1989 season in chaos. Roger Clements was baseball's highest paid player (for a day). And Wade Boggs had to apologize to everyone for the stories his "friend" Margo Adams was revealing in Penthouse!

Terrorism took to the skys in December as a Pan Am jet bound for the United States was blown up over Scotland. A large number of passengers were students returning from Fall semesters studying in Europe.

Other news events will follow. TO BE CONTINUED . . .

NEWS IN REVIEW — PART 2

So what did you do last weekend? . . . Go to the movies! Well, you and a lot of other people saw a lot of movies this year. Here's a list of some of the films you may have seen this year:

1. RAIN MAN — Dustin Hoffman, Tom Cruise, and lots of Oscar nominations.
2. WORKING GIRL — Melanie Griffith, Sigourney Weaver. Melanie gets an Oscar and Don Johnson, too!
3. BIG — Tom Hanks plays the part of an adult acting like a C2 Freshman.
4. Bull Durham — a movie about Wade Boggs and Margo Adams before the real story.
5. A FISH CALLED WANDA — a favorite of the cafeteria ladies!

DON'T WORRY, BE HAPPY

In the last part of our NEWS IN REVIEW, we're going to look at the music we were listening to our Senior year. There were many concerts at the Centrum, and even a shortened rock concert at school in September. Heavy metal, such as Metallica, Poison, Def Leppard attracted many followers among the ranks of Wachusett students. Others, however, follow the radio to make their choices of music. Popular music is recognized by the Grammy Awards. Some of the winners this year were "Faith" by George Michael, "Fast Car" by Tracy Chapman, "Simply Irresistible" by Robert Palmer, "Desire" of U2, "Giving You The Best That I Got" by Anita Baker; and, of course, the big winner — the anthem of 1988 — "Don't Worry, Be Happy" by Bobby McFerrin.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1989

What's the significance of the above date? Well,it was the first deadline for publishing this yearbook. Are you surprised? You should be, because just like "Rome wasn't built in a day", a yearbook is not put together in a couple of weeks. The planning of the yearbook started in May of your Junior year, the staff went to workshops in August and September, decisions had to be made by December, and now the first 95 pages have to be postmarked by today! We're frantic! We've been at school several nights the last month from 6:00 to 10:00, and sometimes later! Well, it's now 7:45 p.m.; and we've been working since 2:30 when school released. Other people have started February vacation, but not us — we're doing this! Deadlines do crazy things to people, and this is no exception. The deadline has led us to another Top Ten list.

"Top Ten Things To Be Doing Instead Of Yearbook"

1. Go home on the 2:30 bus and veg out on "Santa Barbara."
2. Go to work and make big bucks to spend on vacation to Florida.
3. Stay after school for extra help so you can get into the college of your tenth choice.
4. There's a good episode of "Mr. Belvedere" on TV tonight.
5. Go to the Greendale Mall and "look around!"
6. Go to the Wachusett/Holy Name basketball game.
7. Sleep,sleep, and sleep some more!
8. Go to the Music Department Dance.
9. Watch the Celtics on ESPN.
10. Decide not to graduate from high school; so who needs a yearbook anyway!

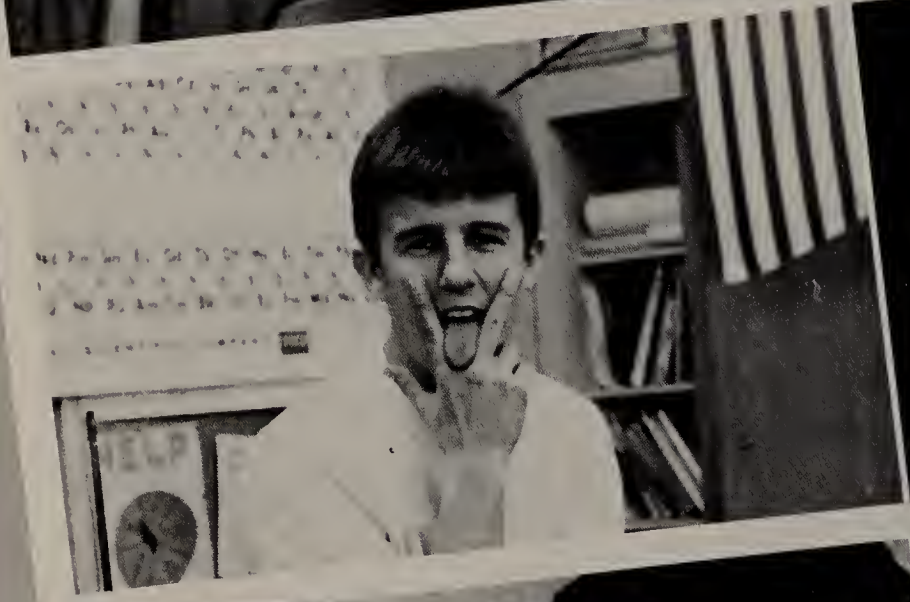
UNFORGETTABLE,

TO THE END!!



IN MEMORY of NEIL LUSSIER

classmate and friend

I had a great pleasure of knowing Neil Lussier for ten years. From the time I met him during the second grade to the day of his untimely, tragic death he always had a positive attitude.

Holden Fire Department Explorer Post 12 was established in 1982. This post was organized to train young men, ages 14 through 18 on the techniques of being a firefighter. I was fortunate enough to join this post in 1985. One year later I talked Neil and his younger brother Shawn into joining.

Neil grew a great interest in the field of firefighting while being an Explorer. During this process Neil and I grew to become close friends. Neil and I both began to have one dream in life, that was to become firefighters.

The weekend before Neil died, members of the Holden Fire Department and four Explorers participated in a successful search of a missing elderly man. For our participation in this search, the Explorer post received a letter of commendation from the Holden Police Department and the Holden Selectmen. Unfortunately, Neil as President of our post was unable to accept this great honor.

When Neil was doing what he loved (firefighting) he was very serious and dedicated. Neil was a hard worker! I know someday he would have become a great firefighter.

I have now come to grip in that Neil is gone. But somehow I know he will always be here in spirit with everyone that knew him.

Goodbye great friend,

Brian Conley, '89

Being a senior gives you the choice of selecting amongst all the classmates those who exemplify anything from best musician, best dressed, all the way to being class clown. But nobody clues in any of the seniors before the vote as to how hard this special selection will be. Just think of how many great athletes, funny clowns, numerous loafers, myriads of musicians and artsy artists, roomfuls of politicians, couples everywhere, loafing loafers, and even some chauvinists and feminists. These are just a few, but the best will stick out in your memories.

"Can you get the car?" "What are you doing tonight?" "I can't, I have a date." These are comments frequently heard during the school day Friday. Everyone is making plans for the weekend. Different people spend the weekend doing different things. Some of us go to sporting events, others go to dances, and still others go to parties. We also go bowling, to the movies, on dates, to dinner, to the beach (weather permitting), cruise around, just hang out at home, or go to our dreaded places of employment (especially dreaded when we work on a weekend night). No matter what we do, we all know how to make the most of these two precious days of freedom.

It's not if you win or lose, but how much fun you have!
I'm trying to go to sleep, if you don't mind!

Winter Carnival

Carnivals are a great way of getting everyone together. This year Wachusett celebrated it's annual Winter Carnival during February. The activities held included a pie eating contest, a very messy weenie dunk, a staring contest, volleyball, basketball, a tricycle race, and to celebrate the very end, a huge dance. Due to an unfortunate lack of snow, the usual snow sculptures could not be made. The contests were held between classes. However, the important thing was to have fun; it didn't matter who won.

Goblin's Night Out

Costumes and candy are a few main attractions that go along with Halloween. Pumpkins lighted, and ghostly music add special highlights. This year, October 31st happened to land on a Monday, so action had to be taken right away to schedule a dance. It was on Friday night, and we had to dress up. Many people, or should we say goblins, showed up. It was a fun filled night that everyone enjoyed. Many of us who rampaged through the streets with shaving cream and eggs, had fun too; we just hoped we wouldn't get caught! As far as parties were concerned, there were a few . . . people dancing, playing games, talking. Some people just liked staying home watching the little kids go up and down the streets all dressed and bundled up tight. Handing out loads of candy was a giving approach to some teens. Halloween brings all of us together, giving, receiving, and just having lots of fun.

Santa's Coming

Candy canes, colored lights, TV specials, soft, falling snow, sugar cookies, egg nog — Christmas wouldn't be the same without all this. Racing through the malls, spending all your saved up money, deciding what to give to who all add to the excitement of the holiday season. Decorating the tree and running out Christmas cards, wrapping presents, seeing everything colored red and green, the spirit affects everyone. Listening to packed Christmas carols on the radio, we count the days until the two years. We find out exactly how much our parents love us. Did they buy you that porsche? Are you getting that 1,000 dollar skiing trip? Did you get all 200 presents that you asked for? Regardless, nobody is immune to the happiness spread at Christmas time, the best holiday season of the year.

The Time of Our Lives

Could we ever have imagined a night as special as that of April 29, 1988? The 6:30 start brought upon rows of limos and many nervous, but excited juniors. All the preparations; getting a date, a dress, a tux to match, the flowers, the boutonniere and our hair done were all worth it. The buffet dinner was followed by three to four hours of great music and dancing. Some of us left around 10:00, while others of us waited until the last song the D.J. played. Our fun didn't end after the prom. Many of us went to parties, cruised around in our limos and even went to fast-food restaurants. Did we ever think there would be a day when we went into McDonald's or Denny's dressed in formal wear? Our prom theme definitely fit. Our junior prom was "The time of our lives."

"Chris, we're going out to the smoking area. Wanna come?", "Let's sit in the hallway.", "You're in front of my locker. Could you please move?" Hanging out — We do it so well. The places? Anywhere. The cafeteria (in the morning or at lunch), the auditorium and cafeteria hallways, the smoking area, the courtyard, anywhere outside, or in front of our lockers. We may look quite useless, but actually we are doing something constructive. Many of us scramble to get our last minute homework done, others catch up on the latest gossip. Some of us enjoy breakfast and others just take a few minutes to wake themselves up. As the day progresses, we can be seen talking in the hallways, playing hackey sac, having a smoke or catching the rays outside. After school, we talk by our lockers or get ready to go to an activity. Others of us wait for the late bus. Soon the school becomes deserted until the next morning.

LIP SYNC

Celebrities. They were everywhere during the Wachusett Lip Sync. Music groups who came to Wachusett (to name a few) were The Blues Brothers, Def Leppard, Guns and Roses, the Supremes, the Covergirls, and Salt and Pepper. The Blues Brothers took first place as the best group performance. The night definitely ended on a "good" note."

Through Good Times . . .

Caring, sharing, talking, listening, understanding, and having fun are a few things a friend does. We rode big wheels together in elementary school, we carpooled to dances in junior high and once we were in high school, we talked on the phone, worked together, drove to school together, went out together, set each other up on dates, and were there for each other when times got rough. We always remember — "Keep smiling, keep shining, knowing you can always count on me. For sure. Let me tell you, that's what friends are for."

That's What Friends Are For

Dancin' up A storm

"Call me at five and tell me what you're wearing to the dance." This statement is commonly heard during last period on Friday afternoon. From September to November and Friday night excitement for freshmen, sophomores, some juniors and a few seniors (We are just too cool.) are the dances held in the gym at school. The music plays as students dance, talk or walk around. The dances stop around November because the basketball teams need the gym, but they start up once again in March or April. With the dances come the freshmen, sophomores, juniors and (a few) seniors with their dancing feet once again.

Let's Party!

Celebrate! Parties are a great way of celebrating. We dance, talk, play games and have a great time at parties. Some of us have small get togethers, big bashes, surprise parties, birthday parties, or holiday parties! Food is a big part of parties. We eat anything from pizza to chips and dip to M & M's. In the words of Kool & the Gang — "There's a party going on right here. A celebration that will last throughout the year. So bring your good times and your laughter too. We're gonna celebrate your party with you. Come on now. Celebration!"

"All You Need Is Love"

Couples are anywhere and everywhere at Wachusett. You can see them holding hands, hugging, gazing into each other's eyes or kissing. Some couples just started going out, while others have been going out for a year or two. We've come a long way from "Boys (or girls) have cooties!" to "Paula (or Chuck)— will you go out with me?"

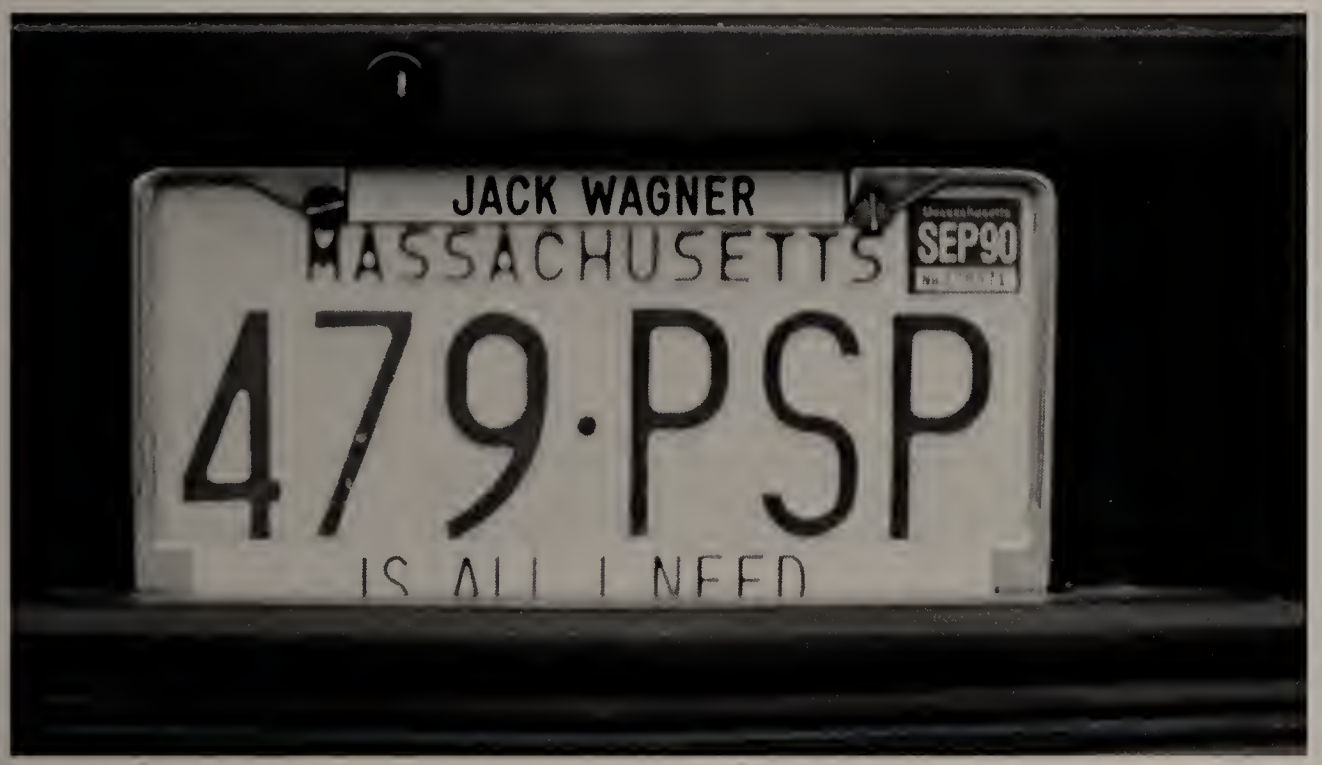
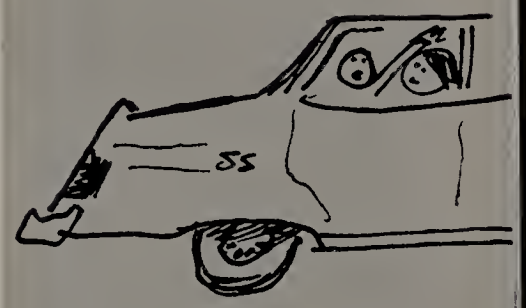
CRUISIN'





Have Car, Will Travel

Cars! What would we do without them? From the time we entered high school we waited for the day when we would get our license. At that point we searched for a car we liked and could afford. We use our cars all the time. We use them to get to school (if we were lucky enough to get a parking permit!), get to work, get to a hot spot or just cruise around. Our cars are decorated with bumper stickers, college logos, rearview mirror ornaments and various stuffed animals stuck to our windows. Some of us have new cars and some of us have junk heaps, but it doesn't matter as long as they run and we can go cruisin'.

Fun in the Sun

Cloudless skies; burning sun; warm, starry nights; late night partying; sleeping 'till noon; goofing off all day. These are all signs of summer. Everyone impatiently sits through the school year anticipating these two wonderful months of freedom. Gone are notebooks, textbooks, teachers, lockers, and most of all, our homework. We are no longer rudely awakened by the hated buzz of an alarm clock. These long, relaxing days are spent catching the rays at the beach, prowling through malls, joking around with friends, or at a job we hopefully enjoy. At night it's off to the movies, a friend's house, a dance club, or back to the beach. If there is anyone who does not enjoy a life this wonderful, their brain cells have obviously been damaged by too much schoolwork. Two short, wonderful months. It only happens every 180 painful school days, but it is sure worth the wait.

Snowin' and blowin' . . .

Volleyball Marathon '89

Cantankerous may be the way the many participants and volunteers feel after 24 hours of playing volleyball, but the results also makes one feel proud to be a part of the overall team. Once again, mainly students, some staff, and other various adults mobilized in March, collected pledges, and set out to tame those formidable nets hanging dead center in our gym. Not just playing volleyball ends up on the agenda, but many precious moments aimed at this massive group effort, some excellent pizzas, great t-shirts, and some tough volleys, setups, and returns. After several springs with the volleyball marathon, this year's seniors are the first class to graduate and see through four marathons. Congratulations.

had the ARTS, you've had it all!!

Celebration of the arts

Coming into May is the always popular 'Celebration of the Arts,' where Wachusetts young writers and poets, journalists, artists and musicians, politicians and scholars are recognized. In its seventh year, it proves to be larger, more represented, and more notorious with each evening. With the main purpose in being to recognize and honor many students for great achievement in areas so important to mankind but usually not featured with honor. The participants all have countless hours of sweat, dedication, perseverance, and will that is represented indirectly here and on this page are only a few of those who were present. Keep on creating.

Let the Good Times Roll

This year's Junior Prom on May 5, 1989 will by one remembered be all who attended. We were greeted by Mr. Ethier's video camera as we entered the Marriot. The tables were neatly arranged, even though people were hardly sitting down. The dance floor was always occupied with dancing couples.

Everyone looked so beautiful, we could hardly recognize each other! The most popular color this year was black, which was worn by our prom queen, Chrissy Berlane. To remember this special occasion, we all received glasses which read, "You've got a Friend."

Don't look so surprised

That's it, show those pearly whites

Dependents

Dependents . . . of better known as underclassmen. Juniors, sophomores, and freshman come under this category. the heirs to the 'senior' throne . . . Worry free of the college responsibilities, when the only worry is if a zit might attack . . . The dependents of today are going to be tomorrows seniors, scholars, presidents . . .

If there's one thing you see at Wachusett, it's the closeness of friends. After spending four years with the same kids, it's next to impossible not to become very close. While walking through the screaming halls, the sound of laughter or seeing friends hugging is something you'll always see.

Best friends are hard to come by.
Get a little closer. Don't be shy.

FRESHMEN

First Impressions

Did you feel the same way when you were a freshmen? Were you afraid of getting stuffed in a locker, getting trampled down in the hallways, being given wrong directions by the superior seniors, or even fear not being able to find the right bus to take home? Maybe you were the adventurous type, excited to start the greatest four years of your life. Here is what some of the freshmen of 1989 had to say about their first impressions of Wachusett.

Jill D'Innecenzo and Amanda Whitford both agreed that it was "fun seeing and meeting all new people".

When Matt Gaffney was asked what he first thought of Wachusett, he said, "I know where I'm going. NOT!"

Jen Cross said, "My firt impressions were of the Emeralds, Sea Shells, Bagels, Mooses, and M.C."

The first thing that caught Matt Conley's eye was the girl that sat behind him in Spanish class.

Ryan Tomer said, "At first, I didn't think I was going to like it because I didn't know anyone. Now I do, and I think it's cool."

Kristen Ausanka, Keith Brisebois, Cheryl Congdon, Matthew Conley, Alison Deotte, Kristen Falcone, Ann Ferris, Stephen Friedman, Asima Gaffar, Anna Gallant, Leisl Heinold, Jennifer Lapoint, Suzanne Luberecki, Melissa Maki, Sylvie Morris, Jason Rends, Benjamin Selkow, Jenny Sorblom, Glenn Sullivan, Heather Tomkinson, and Julie Wade.

Class Spirit

During our lives at Wachusett, students belong to a team of classmates and friends. These kids work and have fun together and feel the unifying force called class spirit. At Wachusett every year there is a designated day when this class spirit is shown through teamwork and fun. Competitions range from tricycle racing to pie eating contests. Try and picture this. A bunch of fully sane kids (or semi-sane in some cases) seated at various tables in our school cafeteria. A tasty looking blueberry pie placed in front of each kid. A clear plastic bib is put on each. And then — you might think the students would pick up a fork and dig in, but no! They all fearlessly shove their faces into the heart of the pie. Or how about a group of kids riding tricycles ten times too small for their bodies down the hallway. What is the purpose of all this humiliation? To distinguish their class. Now that's class spirit!

Don't eat too fast! You're making a mess!

Remember this? It's the first day of school for the class of 1992.

Uh-oh! You don't look so good.

A Fashion Fiesta

Decked out in everything from cut off jeans and t-shirts to designer dressed, the students here know that just about anything goes. It doesn't seem to matter if you wear the clothes you got 3 years ago for Christmas from some relative with bad taste of the new brand name outfit you bought on your shopping spree last weekend. The students at Wachusett even dress in groups. Each circle of friends has their own "look". If one of us dares to be different and wears something totally outrageous the first reaction would be to laugh. Not even a week later one more person has a similar outfit on and then another and another until pretty soon that outfit isn't so outrageous any more.

What do you think? Is this my style?

I hope someone will notice me!

Gossip and more gossip is the only way of knowing who's hot and who's not around Wachusett these days! Sports, music, Language clubs, chess club, Model U.N., Student Council . . . these are just a few of the extra activities that are offered at Wachusett and many students have found their niche in at least one of these clubs that meet after school or during their free time. These activities are offered to kids to make them more well-rounded people and able to handle any extra work they may encounter in the future. Besides these factors, these activities are meant as fun things for kids to get involved in and in which they develop a sense of teamwork while sharing responsibility. In many of these extra-curriculars such as Model U.N. and Student Council new skills are formed. The students in these groups can learn new ideas on how governments are run. All in all, the outside interests of a student can contribute to his or her well-being and over all happiness with school.

Stress — I can't handle the stress!

There's nothing like that 5 minute break between each class.

Could this be stress or just M-K?

No matter how late you stay up studying, it always seems like you're never ready to take exams, whether you're someone who couldn't be bothered to study, a brain, or someone that has to pull an all-nighter. There is no such thing as a student who isn't just a little nervous when the teacher says clear your desks. With these words everyone quickly rereads their notes and puts them under their chairs. Depending on how well you do on the exam you must either worry about excuses even believable enough for you or brag about how you really didn't study and you just happened to know every question on the test.

Not many people will argue when I say that the '88-'89 year was a great year for movies. During the summer and the school year kids use going to the movies as an excuse to get together with friends, boyfriends, and girlfriends. However, this past year, I'll bet people have gone to see movies just because they are dying to see the movie. If asked about the year's best, most people would probably respond enthusiastically, Rainman! Tom Cruise certainly made a hit Rainman as well as another favorite, Cocktail. Die Hard, Coming To America and Who Framed Roger Rabbit were also box office smashes. This year was filled with many good things and the movies were certainly one.

There is just about one thing that kids look forward to in school careers — FIELD TRIPS! On field trips, you get to go to fun (and sometimes interesting) places and run around while attempting to (Ha Ha) learn something from the whole experience. One very important aspect of the trip is the bus ride, because fifty teenage kids running around in a total space of about 500 square feet is bound to be somewhat amusing. So if you parents are wondering why your son or daughter is so exhausted after a supposedly educational trip to the zoo or even the theater, then just remember that even education sometimes does not include any learning whatsoever . . .

Does anyone notice how many students here at Wachusett are under a lot of stress these days? Especially when we have tests, an over-abundance of homework, and papers and reports to write. Having to deal with this and our teachers and parents can sometimes pose as a problem. To alleviate stress we as students must often take drastic measures. One of the most popular methods is the "tension breaker" (when a person screams as loud as possible). Next time you hear that ear-piercing sound watch out for stressed out students.

Throughout this year we the students of Wachusett have mourned the loss of a dear friend due to a tragic accident earlier this year. Matthew Naroian, a sophomore, was well liked by everyone who knew him and will be thought of and remembered faithfully by all of us. To preserve his memory, we the staff have dedicated the underclassmen section of this year's yearbook to him.

To Matt Narioan:
May the road rise up to meet you,
May the wind be always at your back,
May the sun shine warm upon your face,
And the rains fall soft upon your fields,
And, until we meet again,
May God hold you in the palm of His Hand.
WE LOVE YOU FOREVER!!!
Love always, we'll never forget you!!

Everything else . . . Wachusetts extra-curricular activities are the backbone of the school. Sailing Club, Student Council, Model UN, just to name a few, are the after-school life of Wachusett students. There's something for everybodies interests, no matter what it is.

Model UN, DECA, etc.

Music

Echos of music always seem to fill the hallway outside the Music Department, whether it be vocal or instrumental. Wachusett's music program consists of four performing groups; the Wind Ensemble, Wachusett Singers, Concert Band, and Concert Chorus. The department presents four concerts per year, along with the annual madrigal dinner. Also, many students audition for, and participate in the Quabbin Valley, Central District, State, New England, and All-Eastern Music Festivals. Being a part of the Music Department can mean many good opportunities.

"I've made a lot of friends and the teachers are great, plus we get to travel," says Jen Adams, a senior who plays the oboe in both Concert Band and Wind Ensemble.

Last year the department went to Orlando, Florida to participate in the All-American Music Festival, and is planning future trips to Toronto, New York City, and Europe. Enjoyment and development are what the Music Department is all about, not to mention having fun.

Jazz

Easy swing; dirty blues; jazz rock. No matter which way it sounds, jazz has become a big item in the Music Department. The Wachusett Jazz Ensemble was in full swing this year. The contest pieces for '89 included, "Say What?", "Ballad For A Lady", "Cheesecake", and "Flight Of The Foo Bird".

"The ensemble this year is much tighter as a group than last year's group, and I feel we can go a long way this year," said senior trumpet player Bill Beck. And that is what they did. The ensemble placed second in the Central District Competition, and went on to receive a bronze medal at the State Competition.

New Arrivals

Every year new clubs seem to pop up, and this year was no exception. The Art Club, Girls Flag Football, the Aviation Club, and the Monty Python Club became the four new kids on Wachusett's block.

"The Art Club allows you to work on projects that you can't do in regular art classes," said Matt Favreault. This organization let's members develop and enjoy their artistic talents at the same time.

The second new club formed gave girls who have always wanted to play football the chance. Girls Flag Football has had such a big response because it offers fun, exercise, and the same chance that the boys have been given.

The third new club on the block was the Aviation Club. This small but worthwhile club has brought together students who share an interest in flying.

The last new club formed this year was the Monty Python Club. During the meetings the room is filled with laughter as members watch the legendary episodes. This club has proven itself popular among members of all four classes, with its' overwhelming response.

Helping Hands

Endless hours of time and commitment are a part of helping others. SADD and the Buddy Program are perfect examples of this. These students helping other students prove that Wachusett is truly a family.

"I joined SADD because I was concerned about many of the accidents related to drinking and driving, and I wanted to help prevent it," said Linda Nelson. And trying to prevent it is exactly what SADD has been doing. The organization has set up a hotline for students who have had a little too much to drink, to call to get a safe ride home. Also, SADD has had many guest speakers come to Wachusett in the past. One of this year's speakers was Steve Nelson, a former Patriot, who is committed to helping students through the Safety Board.

Members of the Buddy Program show kids who are new to the area around Wachusett, and get them acquainted with the school. Cara Pyle said, "The Buddy Club is a fun way to make new friends and welcome them to Wachusett."

The Media

Everybody needs to get involved in Wachusett's media. Not only is this a form of expression, but also a way to relate a slice of Wachusett life. We need to relive those unforgettable moments by seeing them in print. We need to read about "senioritis" to know we're not alone. We need to see our writing in print at least once to feel the victory of success.

ECHO breezed into '88 looking better than ever. Editors-in-Chief Gina Mammone and Alicia DelSignore and the rest of the ECHO staff changed not only ECHO's look, but also it's content. New this year were columns by Dave Bunker and Sarah Sadowski and a bigger and better Arts and Entertainment section.

Channel 39 began a new weekly series entitled "Wachusett Review" hosted by Shawna Conley, Allison Curran, Eric Johnson, and Chuck Rubin. "Wachusett Review" featured glimpses of Wachusett life, including a look at the '88 Blood Drive and highlights of the '88-'89 sports seasons.

Rubarb Pie (Wachusett's literary magazine) and Chocolate Soup (the Foreign Language Department publication) have been fantastic this year due to a large amount of student interest. Through these two publications, students have been given the chance to express themselves through poetry, stories, and essays.

Wachusett's media is continually expanding in different areas. The '88-'89 year was no exception. We're doing a great job. Keep up the good work!

RTMOUTH

Honors

Excellence in French, Spanish, and all around accomplishments bring high honors to some Wachusett students. The Spanish Honor Society held inductions in the spring. The French Honor Society initiated twenty-four new members in the fall. French Honor Society activities this year included the sale of "Pierrot Grourmand" lollipops, the production of videocassettes in French for use at the middle schools, and the planning of activities for the French students from Bayeux.

The National Honor Society inducted fifty juniors and seniors in November. Officers were elected prior to this; Dave Bunker (President), Mark Krukonis (Vice-President), Eliza Edelsberg (Secretary), and Cheryl Odoardi (Treasurer). The year began with a very successful blood drive coordinated by Chris Rodgers. Laurie Tautkas the Heart Phonathon in the spring. Besides taking part in S.T.U.D.I.A., members also participate in other community activities including a walk for the homeless.

Amnesty International

Earlier this year, Renee Gringas and Stacy Cordwell began a new chapter of Amnesty International at Wachusett. Many students have taken an active interest in the club. Membership has involved writing letters on behalf of Prisoners of Conscience (people who have been imprisoned for their sex, color, or beliefs), signing appeals and learning about the background and goals of Amnesty International.

Science

Engineering and biology are just two of the topics covered in Science Seminar. Students involved with this organization discuss different aspects of science with local scientists who volunteer their time.

"Being a member of the club can really help you with your science projects," said sophomore Brook Yules. In fact, in past years Science Seminar has had people go to science fairs at both the state and national levels.

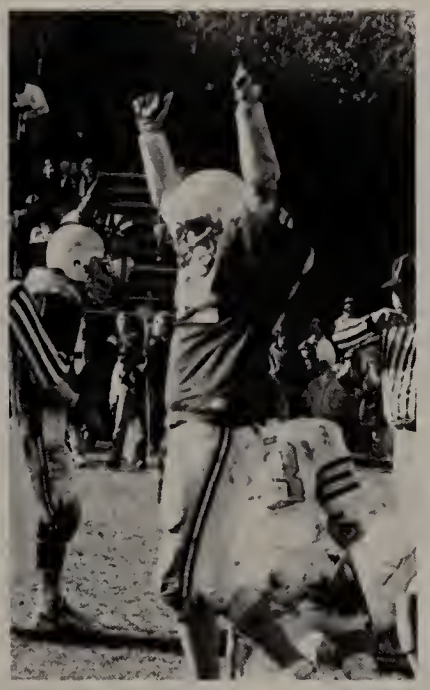
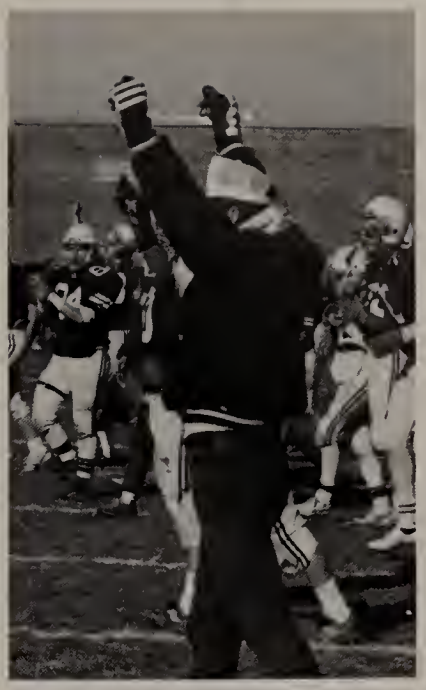
F.F.A. (Future Farmers of America) is a group of students that study the science behind agriculture and horticulture. Besides taking this as an academic subject taught by Mr. Gansis; they also participate in contests on the local, state, and sometimes national level. This is one of the few extracurricular activities that prepare the student for life after Wachusett!





Culture

Ethnics and culture are the two main focuses which draw people to the International Club. Members start off each year by greeting the exchange students who have come to Wachusett from other countries. These exchange students greatly help to make Wachusett students more aware of the world around them. In exchange, the visiting students are shown what America is all about.

This year, the club went on trips to New York City, Nantucket, and Sturbridge Village. The club also held a party for the exchange students who came over from France this spring. In addition to these activities, they held film festivals from time to time, to watch foreign films.

Sophomore Lisa Sullivan said she joined the club, ". . . to learn about different cultures and to have fun." The International Club certainly knows how to mix culture with fun, and it has a lot to offer its' members.

Why?

Everyone as a freshman at Wachusett wants to get involved and become a part of the Wachusett family. Most find that the best way to do this is to join clubs. Since Wachusett has a club for everyone, students find themselves staying after hours enjoying a hobby, and having fun. But clubs are not only a source of fun, they teach us about working with others, and help each of us to grow as a person.

"My greatest opportunity in high school was Student Council," says Amy CampoBasso, a senior, "What I've learned has made me what I am."

And as seniors, we can leave Wachusett full of the memories we have made, and of the experiences we have shared with the friends we have made by joining clubs.

Beatin' Cheatin'

For the most part, cheating is not a laughing matter to most teachers, but sometimes they can't help but smirk at the ridiculous techniques some students try to get away with.

"I remember this one incident," recalls a teacher, "when these two students were cheating on a multiple choice test. They both had 'click' pens and would relay the answers by clicking their pens a certain number of times. One for A, two for B, etc. I couldn't believe it at first, so I waited to get the tests back and low and behold they had shot for shot the same answers on every question."

Another teacher is shocked by the risks some students are willing to take to cheat on their tests. "This girl was making up a test in the back of one of my other classes. I hadn't really been paying attention to her, but did manage to glance her way a few times. I thought the way she had stacked her books was kind of suspicious, so I quietly approached her and caught her in the act. She was cheating off of her friend's copy of the test, which her friend had evidently given to her beforehand."

In closing the teacher smiled and said to me, "You know even more unbelievable is the fact that these kids have the audacity to ask to retake it. Now that's funny," he chuckled.

Where do they go?

You know what you do, BUT, what do they do? . . .

For many faculty members, vacations are a way to recover from the frantic life of teaching. Some like to travel to exotic places or climb a mountain or two. Last summer, Mrs. Wreschinsky spent three weeks in Montana and traveled the Rockies to West Edmington, Canada. Mr. Baer prefers to hunt and fish at his family's summer cottage or go to Acadia in Maine while Mr. Hedlund follows a stricter regimen. He vows to eat lots of fruit and vegetables and if he has time, he wears "crazy hats" and does "crazy walks". For him, vacation is a time to "seek adventure and take turns never experienced before."

Some teachers just cannot stay away from the academic atmosphere. Mr. Baer has gone to U-Mass or W.P.I. during the summer. Mr. Hedlund reads and writes things that schoolwork prevented him from doing while others prepare new classwork for the coming year. But as we suspected, they do miss Wachusett if they stay away too long. They miss the energy and the friendship, the teaching and the learning, but I'm sure most of all — the students.

SPARE TIME?

YES, THEY HAVE SPARE TIME, AND SPEND IT like us

Forever wondering what your teachers do when they get home? Well, your worries are over, as we have the shocking details to the Poll question, "What do you do when you come home from school?"

"Buy a newspaper, let the cats out, run the dishwasher." — Mr. Miles

"Eat." — Mr. Perkins

"First I usually do some loose schoolwork, play the guitar or banjo, then supper, then my wife and I play Jeopardy when it comes on . . . I end up winning all the time." — Mr. Dave Tarkiainen

"It varies, I go to the radio stations I work at if I have to, then I go home and talk to the dogs, read the newspaper and listen to the answering machine." — Mrs. Chase

"Watch the Soaps if I'm home in time, and if it's late I make dinner." — Mrs. Wilcox

"Chop wood, get supper ready and then watch Judge Whopner." — Mr. Baer

"I run, sometimes I swim and I drive my daughter to wherever it is she's going." — Mrs. O'Connor

"By the time I get home it's usually late so I read the paper and eat supper." — Mr. Larson

"I check to see if my son has any homework, eat supper and play Uno with him . . . every night." — Mrs. Komenda

SCHOOL NURSE

SHE'S MORE THAN JUST A NURSE, SHE'S A FRIEND

For most of us, the school nurse is there when we want to be dismissed or when high school stress gives us headaches. We go to her when we need a band-aid or maybe just to use the back room to rest for a while. Despite frequent visits of even once a week we do not realize just how much she really does. This past January, 1989, Wachusett's own nurse, Linda Salmonsen was honored with the position of School Nurse of the Year. Getting this award involved doing creative programs, being published in a national school nursing journal, as well as many other factors.

Mrs. Salmonsen has done quite a lot for Wachusett. She developed a teenage pregnancy identification program, initiated an eating disorder program with the U-Mass Medical Center, organized the annual adolescent health fair, and designed a resource book for teachers on how to help their students who may come to them with problems. Because of her dedication, we have a crisis intervention team, an In-Service workshop for teachers on adolescent issues, the Wachusett Expression Theater, and the S.A.D.D. program, which she began in 1981.

When she received the award, Mrs. Salmonsen was "excited, honored, and embarrassed." It is obvious that she has earned the award through her hard work and relationships with the students. She wants the students to feel free to come to her with anything they want to talk about. When referring to how she feels about her new status, she says: "It is hard for me to believe I'm doing that much more extraordinary than most school nurses who are committed to their jobs."

Jokin' around!

Did you hear the one . . .

"What did one acorn say to the other acorn? — Gee, I'm a tree!" Get it? Ge-om-etry? What would we do if it weren't for (stupid) jokes like this? (The credit for that one goes to Mr. Barys.) Teachers tell jokes to help students remember class material and to keep them attentive when lectures get boring. But are teachers as funny out of school as in?

Mr. Tarkiainen, head of the Social Studies Department considers himself to be just as hilarious at home (and at the Blue Plate) as in school. He sees his jokes, with the exception of most history ones, as being for "mature audiences". Some sources of his amusing anecdotes are comedians like Henny Youngman and Benny Hill and from watching TV shows like "Live From the Improv". But he also creates some of his own, including his favorite: "Be sure not to confuse the confrontation at Concord, "the shot heard 'round the world", with the cows sent into space by the Russians, "the herd shot 'round the world." We also can't forget to mention his famous trick and melodious singing of humorous history ballads.

Thinking back, I'm grateful for all the jokes, no matter how ridiculous, because I, like anyone else, knows laughing is a lot more fun than taking notes.

THE CAFETERIA

IT'S MORE THAN JUST A PLACE TO EAT

Frantically we catch up on homework we didn't do the night before, we socialize there and we eat there. The cafeteria plays a large part in almost every student's or teacher's life, but we never think of the care that goes into selecting our menus. One of the strongest links in the chain that works to give us a decent meal is Cafeteria Director, Ellen Mowrey.

With seven children of her own, why would she choose to subject herself to the perils of even more kids? "It doesn't matter whether it is seven or seven hundred kids, I like it a lot," says Mrs. Mowrey. Many of us don't realize how much she really cares about what we are eating. She wants our suggestions; in fact, she says, "If they (the students) have a problem, I want to hear about it. I want them to know I really care."

To prove that she does want to know the students' and teachers' comments, a suggestion box was placed at the end of the tray line and in the teachers' cafeteria. Mowrey says that suggestions range from getting food from McDonalds to taking the nuts out of cookies. Some of the most popular suggestions are cooking the pizza and cookies longer and selling more salads and health food. Mrs. Mowrey has noticed a trend in health and nutrition awareness; the salads and health food are just the beginning. While her aim is to sell "more fresh food, less junk food," she notes, "Students say they want more nutritious food but they still buy the junk food."

Mrs. Mowrey has found that chicken nuggets are the biggest seller by far, followed by stuffed shells. Students often buy two or three lunches of these meals, especially the boys. She is trying to incorporate new ideas into the menus such as homemade bread once a week and other food from "scratch". With the fresh bread used on the grinders, "you end up getting more for your money," says Mrs. Mowrey. And because the Federal Government gives just seven cents, and the State Government gives only fourteen cents toward making a lunch for the students, getting the most for your money, sixty-five cents, is important.

Despite all the good food the cafeteria now offers, Mrs. Mowrey does recall, with embarrassment, some lunch ideas that failed. One of these was in infamous "pizzaburger" which consisted of hamburger and pizza sauce on an English muffin. The reason it failed was because the meat was poor as it was from The U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, which is less expensive than other meat. "To make sure this won't happen again, Mrs. Mowrey now buys hamburgers of higher quality to serve to the students and faculty, even though it is a bit higher in cost. It is nice to know that the Cafeteria Director cares so much about what we eat.

Mrs. Mowrey works at Wachusett because she really likes the kids and faculty. She likes seeing how others feel about her food choices. She tries new ideas "so we can serve you a good lunch for not a lot of money." In the coming years, with cooperation from the state, which she says is slow "but working to make things better," students, faculty and friends will be able to buy the most nutritious meal possible.

WHO'S REALLY RUNNING THE SCHOOL

BERNARD TREMBLAY
ASST. PRINCIPAL

DR. THOMAS PANDISCIO
ASST. PRINCIPAL

WACHUSETT DISCIPLINE WE'VE GOT THE BEST AROUND!

Fascinating as it may sound, the word discipline, which to me has always conjured up a picture of eye-gauging fights, broken glass, and big drug busts, means very little at Wachusett Regional. To be honest we have no big discipline problems, that is, no problem that our administration can't handle or muddle through.

Our most frequent problem to be dealt with, which Mr. Tremblay and Dr. Pandiscio, both assistant principals, agree on, is with cutting class, followed by truancies occurring when students parents are out of town. These offenses though, slightly bothersome as they are, don't have that big of an affect. We still manage to maintain a very low dropout rate, approximately 1%, which to us is 16 kids out of 1600, as opposed to most inner-city schools where the dropout rate's around 32%, or 512 kids out of 1600, practically an entire class.

So what about all the rumors of huge fights and lines of kids waiting outside the office? As Dr. Pandiscio explains," Whenever you get 1600 people together in one spot, you're bound to have social problems." Which can lead to the occasional cat fight and or pranks, which he put mildly as being, "a pain in the butt."

Both assistant principals also agreed that the demeanor of the actual building itself was "sloppy". They of course were referring to the scattered papers, leftover food, and trash which leaves the place disheveled by late in the afternoon.

These problems however, hindering as they are, could be worse. Vandalism is no big problem and anyway when's the last time you got gunned down going to your next class? Ever get hit by a brick hurled through a window? No?

As Mr. Tremblay puts it," Basically what we have is a positive wholesome environment which can be attributed to a lot of things. Good participation, extracurriculars, athletics, and a strong staff to name a few."

"We have great kids," he added and then paused saying," You are going to quote me on that, right?"

Dear Members of the Class of 1989:

Writing a letter to be placed in the yearbook each year is a task that I both enjoy tremendously and yet approach with much apprehension. A high school yearbook is more than a typical book that is read but once and then relegated to a bookshelf perhaps never to be taken down again. A yearbook is a chronicle of the lives of a very special group of people who have shared a common experience--high school. Even now, more years away from my high school graduation than I wish to reveal, I take down my yearbook and the memories of friends, events, good times and bad, come flooding back to me. It is my wish for you that your yearbook will provide you with the kinds of vivid and mostly happy memories I have of my four years at Wachusett.

As you read this book for the first time you will be newly graduated and about to embark on a brand new facet of your life. It is my hope that you find the kind of happiness and success in the future that you are only dreaming about now. I hope and pray that we at Wachusett have prepared you well for the days and years immediately ahead of you, and I hope that your "Wachusett family" will live and grow in your memories as the days pass.

When you pick up this book five years, ten years, twenty-five years and more from the date of your graduation, I hope that its contents cause smiles to break out on your face, a sense of accomplishment to flood your being and a sense of gratitude to the many people who helped you get this far--parents, siblings, teachers and friends--come to your mind. These are truly wondrous years--all the more so from the advantage of distance than from looking at them up close as the present.

Please know that your "family" at Wachusett wishes you well and that we would be pleased to hear from you as your life takes on whatever career you choose.

Keep in touch.....

Warning: Due to the sensitive nature of the information contained herein, and the vast shroud of secrecy surrounding the alleged Wachusett Gate affair, readers are reminded that upon completion of this account they are hereby prohibited from removing this yearbook from the country or serving on any jury mitigating said involved persons until such time as the case is deemed closed by a duly recognized magistrate of the courts — or until we graduate. Secret meetings . . . Planned assassinations . . . attempts . . .
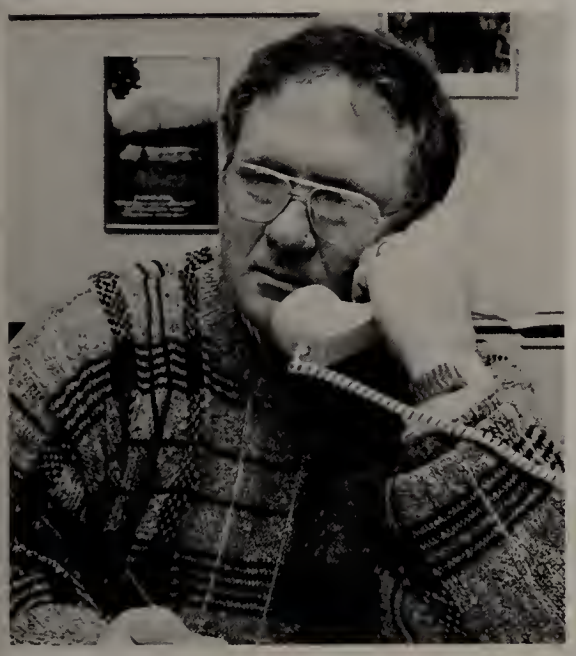
Hostage negotiations . . . Failed cover-up schemes . . . A Latin American countries national election? Could be. A page out of Oliver North's diary? Possibly, but not this time. These phrases happen to be the buzz-words of the 1989 Wachusett Gate Scandals.
My name's Slider. I'm a private investigator. Murders, scandals, and golf are my specialties. Though that list is not necessarily in order of preference.
The following is my rather complete, albeit, brief summary of what went down at WRHS during the 1989 Wachusett Gate Scandal.
The whole affair began as a demented idea sprouted from casual conversations between a couple of friends. No one paid much attention to them — at first. The idea gained popularity throughout the student body and soon many found that their usuai lunch room turned into heated debates. Shouting matches, and physical violence ensued while the administration took the rumors lightly. The basic theme to the "idea" was in some way, shape or form to gain control of the high school and then use that as leverage in negotiating various requests from students and teachers alike. In the first few weeks, demands were made and the accusations began to fly. The students (and some teachers anonymously) formed a union. Not everyone liked the idea, but all joined for fear of punishment or retaliation — an ideology reeking of Nazism. I, myself, took an inconspicuous disguise and proceeded to blend into my surroundings.
Finally, the union won control of the school and presented its demands to an unwilling but pressed group of administrators. Among the "requests" were that exemptions be allowed for seniors on midyears; that rain be a legitimate excuse for cancelling school; seniors be allowed to leave school any time they please for lunch; and finally the new 6-day cycle be eliminated and we would return to the American 5 day week.
Pretty reasonable demands, I say, the only one that they got was their five day week back. Still, it' a victory, if nothing else. I believe that the Wachusett Gate Scandal came at a time of nowhere else to turn. Media coverage blew the event into national hype. The students had to live up to what the tabloids were saying. The whole affair died down quickly amongst allegations and summonses.

A union meeting, one of many that took place over the year. (The picture was blurred to hide their identities)



Mr. Lane attempts to talk to the student terrorists.

The public was at rest now, but still bewildered as to how exactly the case was solved. Ahem. Yes, one person the roving reporters and snooping cameramen missed — was me. Just another unsung hero, I guess. That's me. And with that, I'm off to the links for a quick 18. (Due to the danger, Slider's real name will not be identified)

Senior Reign

What does it mean to be a senior? Is it just a title? Or is it a state of mind? Well, as far as I'm concerned, it's a little — no, a lot — of both.

I think all of our egos, here in the class of '89, were bloated on that first day of school way back in September. It was the moment of unified coolness. No matter who your friends happened to be, or how popular you were, you were now a twelfth grader, and with that long-awaited pinnacle of high school education came instant status.

We were the tough, the proud, the most cool, calm, and collected in the school — and maybe in the world. It was like, just the mention that you're a SENIOR got you immediate attention and admittance to any number of social events from a neighborhood block party to the royal wedding. Also worth mentioning are the duties and responsibilities required and expected of us, as seniors:

First, we've got to leave the proud mark of our class — an '89 — in whatever writing utensil happens to be handy at the time, wherever it seems appropriate — and sometimes where it isn't.

Secondly, we've got to show the underclassmen what the attitude to have is — tres nonchalant. But are we supposed to be sophisticated all the time? Hell no! We have to show those teenie-boppers how to party, too! That's another senior specialty.

Next, I feel it our duty to cut lunch lines and push down littler kids in the hallways to prove our seniority and to instill the well-deserved fear that becomes us so well.

And lastly, we are expected to, and have the right to, have sudden frequent and intense attacks of what is affectionately known as senioritis. Symptoms include not doing of homework, going out for breakfast Monday through Thursday and low Friday attendance rate.

But somewhere there's a new and more difficult challenge with our name on it. Attendance will be mandatory and hard work is a given. Hopefully, we'll never forget our days (and nights) as a Wachusett senior — even if it means taking an occasional three-day weekend.

The 1989 Mountaineer Yearbook has been, as have all others, a real test of our creative skills, our responsibility, our sanity. Despite the hardships of spending vacations typing and losing sleep to make deadlines by any way possible, these are the fruits of our labours.
— Dave Saltz

What do you do when the cheese falls off your pizza and hangs down your chin? Dave knows. Ears? Very funny Mr. Couette! What are you doing this vacation Mrs. Laverdiere? Jeff your award is coming! Yearbook camp? Oh! It's at a college! Mrs. Laverdiere, we have a class across campus in five minutes! Terri, want to spend a couple days at Ken Parkers this summer? Pam and Ericka, no hard feelings?! How's Katherine Mr. C? Mags what are you doing after school? Dave? Kirsten? Retype ALL the senior paragraphs? What do you mean all the pictures have to be cropped on separate paper? Daves page! Name sizes (sorry, I couldn't get 27 pages Dave!). Good job Brad, even though I never saw you . . . I'm telling you Eric, I know what I'm talking about! Keri, impressive! Itchy Terri? The deadline is when? What? Are you kidding me? Organization is an unknown word in our vocabulary. Job number, don't forget the job number! I'm warning you, we won't get our books until November! Who let the bomb off in the Yearbook office?

The memories of the past year. The bonds and breaks in friendships. The anger, the laughter. We tried our best to capture the highlights and normalities of the 1989 year. The yearbook staff are the only people who could possibly know what goes into making a book. What is a yearbook? We were told in Yearbook 'Camp' that it was an official account of the past year's events and it can be used as a legal record. All who participated in this publication are that much more aware. I'd like to thank all of you for the effort, time and creativity that went into this yearbook.

One person stood out this year over all the other people who worked on the publication. She helped when she wasn't suppose to. She gave up vacation time, nights, free class time. I'm not talking about a student, yet a teacher. Rosemary Laverdiere. She gave up so much. We spent hours together, cropping pictures, fixing layouts, typing, the list goes on. The recognition that she gets is minimal. Mrs. Laverdiere, you're more than a 'business advisor,' you're a friend. I'll never forget Westfield or February vacation. Thank you for all of your help.

I'd also like to give special thanks to Kirsten Johnson for all the time she spent sealing envelopes or typing. To Missy Locke for lending her hands to type. Most of all to Dave Saltz who did more than most of the staff members. He wrote the opening and several other stories that were desperately needed. Thank you.

Would I do it again? No comment. luck to everyone.
Thank You,

One LAST Day of school

As twelve years of school have just finished for the class of '89, a lot of planning has gone into their last day of school. The so called scheme Freshman Buff Day is a day of celebrating.

This year's senior class went as far as bringing a toilet to school with a dummy in it. Students names were written on lockers, poster-boards, and sheets with quotes like, "89 Is Fine," "It's All Over," and last of all "Freshman Beware."

Both senior hallways were decorated with streamers and balloons. Dr. Pandiscio's office was even covered with aluminum foil and filled with white and green balloons.

And last of all the pond at the beginning of Wachusett's driveway. It was crowded with seniors in canoes, inflatable boats, and some were even swimming. A few were relaxing in lounge chairs. Seniors look forward to this day all year long.

Thinking ahead . . .

Wachusetts' First Prom Fashion Show

Thinking ahead to the prom starts a year ahead of time for those involved in planning it. But for others, picking out dates, tuxes and gowns, seeing what's available, and arranging it all is a long and arduous task. With all of this in consideration, Wachusetts Home Economics department brought to the students their first ever prom review, featuring the latest in promwear. The afternoon event proved to be a tremendous effort and success and some of the best fun came to the many participants and models.

Dance Til Dawn

What's in the box?

Oh no! Not another picture!

This is our year!

The evening of May 20th was hot and exciting. Everyone hung up their comfortable old ripped jeans and flipped on their formal wear. Everyone was headed to the best Senior Prom yet at the Worcester Marriot.

Parking was a bit of a problem. Some couples got to take somewhat of a long walk . . . not fun in high heels . . . huh girls? Mr. Eithier and his video camera were their to greet everyone at the front doors, and none other than Ken Parker took the prom pictures. Dinner consisting of salad, chicken, potatoes, green beans, carrots, and chocolate mousse was served by candlelight.

The dance floor was jam-packed with steamy bodies. Everyone danced all night to the great tunes played by the D.J., Chuck Nolan of WAAF. The prom theme was "Love the One You're With," of course reflecting the high moral standards of the senior class . . . What a great time it was.

Oh What A Day!!

class trip

Strictly speaking, and with no qualms, the best 'day' of school is the class trip. It marks the end of umpteen years of education for many, and serves many other purposes.

How many activities we could get in was a big thing that day amongst others. Many of us socialized and even got a chance to know classmates we didn't know before. Some of us rode horses, or floated war canoes for the first time. There were even glimpses of some select teachers on a beach or even in the pool.

Out of the approximately ⅔ of the class that were at the Davis Resort in Moodus, Connecticut (that's two hours south of here for those who didn't go), there might have been a few who didn't take advantage of the day . . . and that was too bad. With temperatures in the 80's, this Wachusett senior version of spring rites, with zillions of things to do, much anticipation with little expectation, meals prepared, plenty of 'scenery,' and some great personalities, how could one go wrong!!!

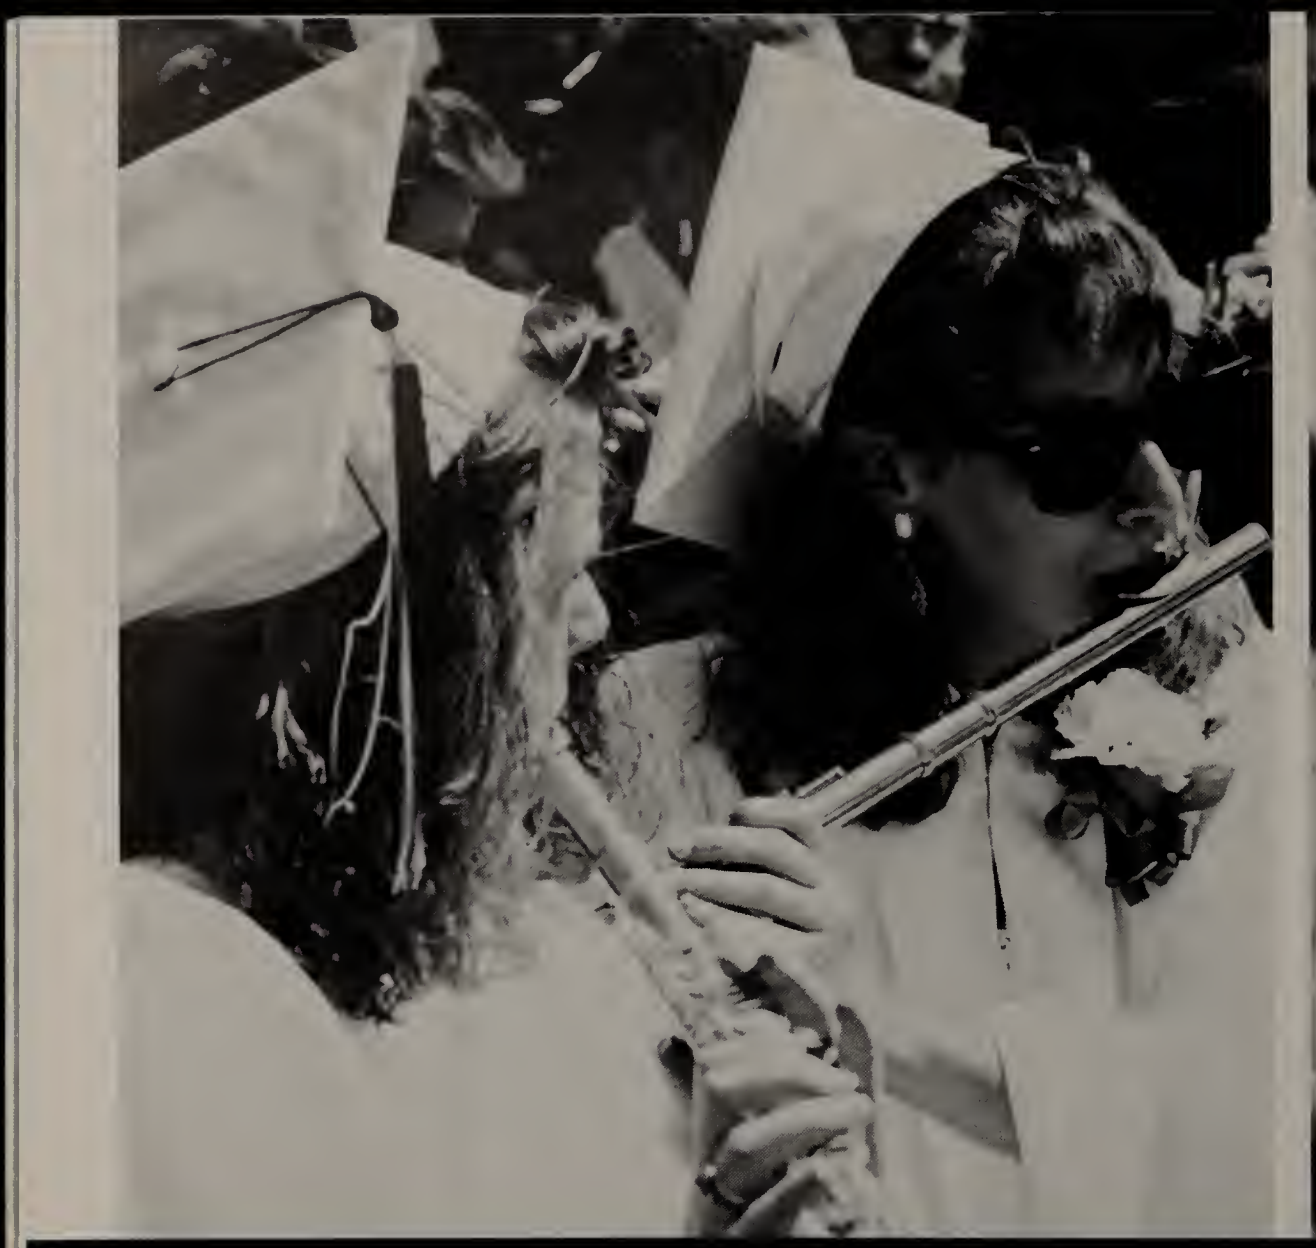
Things to do
TODAY



In Recognition of Learning our ABC's

Saturday, June 3, 1989

We almost went out with a bang (or at least a very strong breeze)! Friday, the rains came and the winds blew, and things were a mess; but . . . Saturday dawned as a terrific day, after rehearsal in the morning! Friends and family joined us as we made our last climb up to the athletic fields (yeah! no more gym) as Wachusett students. We have finally made it, four years have passed; many years ahead.

Led by our class marshalls, Carrie Drinon and Dave Bunker; we participated in the rituals so many watching us had already done. This is our "One Moment In Time;" and before we passed through it, we received some important thoughts. We heard "Answers" from Jason Schrieber, were given "Directions" by Anne Ogilvie, and dealt with "Perception" by David Bunker. But nothing compares to actually receiving the diploma — we were now high school graduates!

And then it was over, and we said our good-byes, and realized that our class motto said it better than anyone else:

"Don't be dismayed at good-byes
A farewell is necessary before you can meet again.
And meeting again after moments or lifetimes, is certain for those who are friends."

Advisors

They've been with us since the beginning of our time at Wachusett; yet we are leaving, and they remain behind. Perhaps another class in the future will benefit from the support, the guidance, and the enthusiasm they've brought to our class. Sure, they bug us about class dues; but then they helped produce a Prom or two with that money that we'll always have memories of! Some of our advisors were our mothers and fathers; proving that a parent is always available to give advice no matter where you are! One thing is for certain, our class would have been lost without them. Thank you to all!

Hope You Have enjoyed the Year in Review

A last look at some faces, places, and . . .

And Your . . .

XYZ's

So there it is, the 1989 Wachusett Regional High School's yearbook. Four years of blood, sweat, and tears summed up and bound in 272 pages.

We've had some great times here and it almost pains us to leave — almost. But time marches on and so shall we. Many wonders and exciting dreams lie in the years beyond; so to all of you, no matter what road you choose to cruise next year, be it college, work, the military, or whatever, good luck. You'll need it.
